TO ESTABLISH TWO COLLEGES

LUTHERANS OF NORTHWEST TO ACT WITH ADJOINING SYNODS.

TWO COMMITTEES NAMED

Great Field Open to English Church Pointed Out by Field Secretary Jensen.

Definite action toward the establishment of two colleges by three synods of the Lutheran church in this portion of the United States was taken this morning by the English Lutheran Synod of the Northwest in annual convention at St. Peter's church. Resolutions relative to the proposition were received from the English Lutheran Synod of Chicago and the Minnesota Conference of the Augustana Synod, which is the governing body of the Swedish Lutheran church in the United States. Both communications asked for joint action and the synod here voted for the appointment of two committees, one to confer with each of the co-working bodies. The plan underlying this official action is to establish one college in the Fox river valley in Illinois and the other in Minnesota. The Synod of the Northwest would assist in the support and share in the government of both institutions. In time the synod will be divided into the Wisconsin and Northwest synods and then the Illinois college will be under the supervision of the Wisconsin and Chicago bodies and the Minnesota under the Northwest and Augustana organizations. Both committees, which are to be named before the closing of the present session will keep in correspondence with the executive committee of the synod and report at the convention next year.

Opportunity for English
Rev. J. C. Kunzmann, D. D., of Philadelphia, Superintendent of Home Missions, was unable to be present and fulfill his portion of the program last evening. The two western field secretaries, Rev. A. C. Andra of Chicago and Rev. M. Jensen of Minneapolis, gave addresses. Mr. Andra laid stress upon the need of hard systematic work and Mr. Jensen pointed out the magnitude of the field which was open to the English Lutheran church of the Northwest. Besides the Canadian, Irish, Scotch and English Lutherans that are fast settling in the district there are thousands of German, Scandinavian, Finnish and Icelandic Lutherans pouring in and the younger generation of the latter are becoming anglicized. If English churches are not established these peoples will be lost to the Lutheran faith and even to Christianity. Winnipeg has been made the center of a great missionary work in Canada and during the next year two more field secretaries will be placed in the territory of the synod. Though the opportunity has not been wholly grasped much encouragement is found in that fact that 16 of the 24 English Lutheran Theological seminaries in the United States are west of the state of Ohio, 24 of the 39 colleges, 33 of the 39 academies, 20 of the 27 hospitals, 23 of 48 orphan homes, and 5 of the 9 deaconess institutions.

How to Organize Women
One of the strongest addresses so far delivered was that of Rev. Willis Beck of Zumbrota, Minn., yesterday afternoon. His theme was "The Church's Women: how to organize and how to employ them." Briefly remarking the Biblical order that women shall keep silence in the churches and learn with all subjection, he cited the different ways in which women served in the days of both the old and new testaments. The speaker then took up the problem of today. A woman can best employ her talents as a deaconess, but the masses in the congregation must be given work. All the different organizations are good and accomplish much but a home and foreign missionary society is the best for mission work is helping the weak and woman's gift is her ability to help. If there are so many women in the congregation willing to join an organization as to make one unwieldy society, No. 2, 3 or more may be formed. There is no end of work for these missionary societies for of the seventy million protestants in Europe sixty millions are Lutherans and thousands of these are coming to America and finding homes in the northwest. There are now in the northwest 8,000,000 Germans, 1,000,000 Swedes, 2,000,000 Norwegians, 500,000 Danes, and these must be brought into the churches. Thus the work of the missionary societies should be more educational and inspirational than financial. Of course money is needed but the women are more useful as missionaries than fund solicitors.

More New Churches
Besides the church at Cedarburg, Wis., two other congregations were received into synod membership yesterday afternoon. They are the societies of Albert Lea, Minn., and Inwood, Manitoba, Canada.

LIFE EBBED WITH APPROACH OF DAY
Anton Behrendt, War Veteran and Respected Citizen, Breathed His Last at Half-Past Two o'Clock.
After an illness extending over many weeks and culminating in severe hemorrhages Wednesday morning, Anton Behrendt suddenly breathed his last at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Klenow, corner of Wheeler and Garfield streets, at half-past two o'clock this morning.

Decased was born at Lagae, West Prussia, July 4, 1828, and prior to his departure for America in June, 1857, served two years in the Prussian army. He came to Janesville in 1859 and located first where the Myers theatre now stands. Subsequently he was proprietor of the Milwaukee House on North First street. He removed to the Union House on N. First street in 1867 and in 1888 he built the Windsor hotel (now the Bmi-pire) adjoining the first-named property. Prior to the last named enterprises, however, he left Janesville in January, 1862, to serve his adopted country as a private in Company K, 3d Wisconsin Cavalry, re-enlisting after his first term had expired and remaining in the service until August, 1865, when he received his honorable discharge. He participated in the Battle of Perryville and the Red River Expedition and was on detached service as Orderly on the staffs of several generals.

Returning from the war, he was wedded in the city of Madison on the 4th day of December, 1865, to Miss Mary Newman, a daughter of John Newman of Posen, Germany, who had come to this country with his family in 1861. The successive business enterprises in which he was interested have already been described. His only lodge affiliation was with the W. H. Sargent Post of the Grand Army.

The wife and six children survive him. The latter are: Frank E. Behrendt of Chicago, Mrs. Fred Pierce of Guthrie, Texas, Edward W. John W. and Elizabeth Behrendt, and Mrs. A. H. Klenow of Janesville. The eldest son, Frank, arrived here this morning and the latter's wife is expected this afternoon. The funeral will be held from the Klenow residence Sunday afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

The end of a long, industrious, and upright life—useful to the nation as well as the city in which he spent the greater part of his life—will be mourned by the entire community.

JAP PAPER HINTS AT WAR.
Hopes Ambassador Aoki Will Force America to Be Just.
Tokio, June 7.—The Hochi, which is supporting Count Okuma in his position on the American question, says: "The San Francisco outrages are worse than the murder of a missionary in China, which resulted in the occupation of Kiao Chow. Who would blame an appeal to the last measure if an impotency to protect treaty rights is proved?"
"We hope, however, that Ambassador Aoki will be firm enough to make the Washington government quickly take measures to mete out justice to the Japanese."

Hit by Baseball May Die.

When Rubber Grows Hot.
When an automobile is running at high speed the rubber tires are rapidly warmed and the heat sometimes becomes very great, with resultant injury to the rubber. The cause of this accumulation of heat in the tire is ascribed to the kneading of the rubber, which generates heat faster than it can be radiated away. For this reason manufacturers have found it to be an advantage to have metal parts in the tread, such as the ends of rivets, in contact with the tire, because the metal, being a good radiator, helps to carry off the heat to the outer air.

AMERICAN WOMEN PRESENTED.

Five at King Edward's Third Court of the Season.

London, June 7.—The third court of the season was held at Buckingham palace Thursday night. There was an exceptionally large presentation list which included the following Americans: Mrs. Frank Wiberg, Miss Wiberg, and Miss May Wiberg, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Melville Post, of West Virginia; and Miss Drexel, daughter of Mrs. Anthony Drexel, of Philadelphia.

King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the prince and princess of Wales and the large royal circle were present.

REIGN OF TERROR IN LODZ.

Terrorists Executed Every Night by Workmen's Vigilance Committee.

Lodz, Russian Poland, June 7.—There has been another reign of terror and violence in this city since June 2. Eleven persons have been killed, including two mill owners, and 37 have been wounded. The workmen have formed a secret vigilance committee, which every night executes one or more bandits or terrorists. The corpses are left on the street and the lips of the dead men are pinned pieces of paper setting forth the exact reasons for the execution.

The Queerest Policemen.

"The strangest policemen in the world are in Cape Town, South Africa," said a man who had traveled in the Dark Continent. "They are the Kaffir negroes. They wear a uniform similar to that of an English soldier, but instead of a club and a revolver they carry a long spear with a red tassel near the point and a short stick which has a heavy brass ball on the end and is attached to the policeman's belt by a cord some 60 feet long. They throw the ball and stick and the cord winds around the prisoner like a ranchman's lariat and prevents him from walking. They are not allowed to carry firearms, and only make an arrest when ordered by their white officers to do so, but if they are ever sent for a man he had better go without question, for he either goes to jail or the hospital if he resists."

The Other Woman.

A certain mother-in-law had stopped so often with her daughter as to cause a quarrel with the husband, and one day, when she again came to stay, she found her daughter in tears on the doorstep. "I suppose George has left you," she sniffed. "Yes"—sob. "Then there's a woman in the case?" she asked, her eyes lighting up expectantly. "Yes"—sob. "Who is it?" she demanded. "You"—sob. "Gracious!" exclaimed the mother-in-law. "I am sure I never gave him any encouragement."—The Bellman.

Metaphors I see in my mind a noble and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks. Methinks I see her as an eagle musing (moulting) her mighty youth, and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam, purging and unscaling her long abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance, while the whole noise of timorous and flocking birds, with those also that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means, and in their envious gabble would prognosticate a year of sects and schisms.

What should ye do then, should ye suppress all this flowery crop of knowledge and new light, sprung up and yet springing daily in this city, should ye set an oligarchy of 20 engrossers over it, to bring a famine upon our minds again, when we shall know nothing but what is measured to us by their bushel? Believe it, lords and commons, they who counsel ye to such a suppressing do as good as bid ye suppress yourselves; and I will soon show how. If it be desired to know the immediate cause of all this free writing and free speaking, there cannot be assigned a truer than your old mild and free and human government; it is the liberty, lords and commons, which your own valorous and happy counsels have purchased us, liberty which is the nurse of all great wits; this is that which refreeth and enlighteneth our spirits like the influence of heaven; this is that which hath enfranchised, enlarged, and lifted up our apprehensions degrees above themselves. Ye cannot make us now less capable, less strong, less eagerly pursuing of the truth, unless ye first make yourselves that made us so, less the lovers, less the founders of our true liberty!

We can grow ignorant again, brutish, formal and slavish, as ye found us; but you then must first become that which ye cannot be, oppressive, arbitrary and tyrannous, as they were from whom ye have freed us. That our hearts are now more capacious, our thoughts more erected to the search and expectation of greatest and exactest things, is the issue of your own virtue propagated in us; ye cannot suppress that unless ye reinforce an abrogated and merciless law, that fathers may dispatch at will their own children.

Give me the liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties.—From John Milton's "Areopagitica."

Ye cannot make us now less capable, less strong, less eagerly pursuing of the truth, unless ye first make yourselves that made us so, less the lovers, less the founders of our true liberty!

We can grow ignorant again, brutish, formal and slavish, as ye found us; but you then must first become that which ye cannot be, oppressive, arbitrary and tyrannous, as they were from whom ye have freed us. That our hearts are now more capacious, our thoughts more erected to the search and expectation of greatest and exactest things, is the issue of your own virtue propagated in us; ye cannot suppress that unless ye reinforce an abrogated and merciless law, that fathers may dispatch at will their own children.

Give me the liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties.—From John Milton's "Areopagitica."

Metaphors I see in my mind a noble and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks. Methinks I see her as an eagle musing (moulting) her mighty youth, and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam, purging and unscaling her long abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance, while the whole noise of timorous and flocking birds, with those also that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means, and in their envious gabble would prognosticate a year of sects and schisms.

What should ye do then, should ye suppress all this flowery crop of knowledge and new light, sprung up and yet springing daily in this city, should ye set an oligarchy of 20 engrossers over it, to bring a famine upon our minds again, when we shall know nothing but what is measured to us by their bushel? Believe it, lords and commons, they who counsel ye to such a suppressing do as good as bid ye suppress yourselves; and I will soon show how. If it be desired to know the immediate cause of all this free writing and free speaking, there cannot be assigned a truer than your old mild and free and human government; it is the liberty

THE COMMON SCHOOLS

Superintendent Cooley of Chicago contributes to the last issue of the Saturday Evening Post, an article on the public school system, which should be read by every educator in the land.

It is a plain statement of conditions as they exist, and portrays the weakness of the common schools so clearly, that every unprejudiced mind will admit the force and truthfulness of his arguments.

He states that the common schools of the land are nearer to the colleges than they are to the people, and that owing to this fact the average child is turned loose from the grades and high schools without practical equipment.

He cites the case of a Chicago boy who was kept in school by his mother, a washerwoman. After graduation he was obliged to go to work in a factory.

His education had been preparatory to a college course and the four years devoted to Latin, Greek and German were wasted so far as practical knowledge was concerned.

This boy is only one of the great army of boys and girls who are turned out from the common schools every year with nothing to show in the way of practical attainment.

It is an injustice that amounts to a crime, for it robs the boy of an opportunity which only comes to him but once.

The Gazette has long contended that the system was wrong, and the paper is glad to note that at least one prominent educator has made the same discovery.

The percentage of scholars who enter the university or college from the high school is insignificant in comparison, and there is no more sense in planning a course of study for the college, than there would be in adopting a theological course, and compelling all scholars to prepare for the ministry.

The course of study in the common schools should be preparatory to life, not professional life nor ideal life, but just common everyday life in the great arena where 95 per cent of the scholars are actively engaged before they reach the age of 20.

Cut out the dead languages, and devote the time to teaching good old-fashioned English, and a few other important requirements, which are sadly neglected. The ability to write plainly, to spell correctly, and compose intelligently, is worth more to the masses than all the fads demanded in the preparatory course.

The "accredited high school" is a snare and a delusion. While it prepares a handful of scholars for admittance to the college, without examination, it handicaps for life 20 million people, who are entitled to better treatment.

Supt. Cooley is right, and his pleas for practical education are sound and sensible. The common schools are for the masses, and not for the classes. They should be conducted for the greatest good to the greatest number.

Boise is ready to take the place of the Thaw Trial in New York and San Francisco is trying hard to bring up the level with the Schmitz case. Meanwhile New York waits patiently for the public to realize the Gould divorce action is worthy of notice.

The improvement of the Court House park is much commented upon. While the shrubs have not yet had a chance to get really started they do look so much better than the bare spots did last year that it is a wonder some former park committee did not think of the plan.

Summer resorts are hopefully removing their winter blankets long enough to peep out and catch a whiff of the cool morning ozone.

Pennsylvania has pinned its faith on Knox. Well, Mr. Knox is a fine man and if nominated would be a good President, but there are others. Taft, for instance.

The German editor who refused to fight a duel with a Count has broken down all the customs of the middle ages and deserves a Carnegie medal for his act.

Janesville is booming. Just watch it grow. This is no fairy story but facts, cold facts, and soon the residents who have been here for fifty years will not know their own town.

We may expect that Haywood will be depicted as a much maligned man before his attorneys get through with their defense of his alleged deeds.

Chicago wants all the national conventions. How about Milwaukee? Wisconsin has some claims and they should be recognized. It is a "Bright Spot" according to the posters.

If this weather should calm down now and be decent for the rest of the summer those croakers would feel that they were being discriminated against.

Attorney Hawley's picture of the Western Federation of Miners reminds the readers of the tales of the Forty-thieves.

When the old story of the cow jumping over the moon is verified the average citizen forgets his interest in porthouse steaks.

Paul Stensland must sometimes wonder if he is serving a term as a prisoner in Joliet or serving time as a witness in the Chicago courts.

Mr. Baer, the good, kind, coal magnate, finds that even slow-going Philadelphians do not relish being killed by his railroad.

The new crown prince of Spain is already enlisted in the army, but a pressing engagement with his nurse will prevent his joining the colors for some time yet.

Fairbanks should persuade a few trust magnates to denounce him before the people will begin to believe he is not their choice.

If all the American farmers migrate to Canada who will run the country places for Uncle Sam?

Chicago is turning the searchlight onto the Cook county jail and finding such things that they do not enjoy the limelight.

Cleveland and its low street-car fares are still bumping the bumps in the Ohio state courts.

Jim Jeffries has bought a saloon. The last call for a prize-fighter is to buy a saloon and Jim is evidently down and out of the game now.

The hard frost will not kill off the annual graduation of the June crop of sweet girl graduates.

Roosevelt did not have to decline the Presidency of Harvard. It was not offered to him.

CHAS. W. EUNSON ASKS DAMAGES TO THAT AMOUNT.

PAPERS SERVED THURSDAY

Robert Bear and William Appleby Named as Defendants in the Case.

Through his attorney, W. J. Ker-shaw of Milwaukee, Charles W. Eunson of this city asks for $20,000 damages from Robert Bear, former policeman, and William Appleby, the City Marshal, for humiliation to his good name and the great detriment to his credit and for loss of considerable time of his labor. The papers were served late Thursday afternoon upon both Mr. Bear and Marshal Appleby. The plaintiff in the case, it will be remembered, was severely injured while being taken to the city lock-up on June 15 last by Officer Bear and was in the Palmer hospital for some time as a result of his injuries. It will be remembered that owing to public talk, Robert Bear, then a patrolman, demanded a hearing before the fire and police commission and was given a thirty-day lay-off. The present suit comes as a surprise to both Mr. Bear and to Mr. Appleby, the latter of whom knew nothing of the happenings of the evening until he reached the police station several hours after Eunson was taken there. The papers in the suit had not been filed in the circuit court up to four this afternoon.

Suburban News in Brief

AFTON

Afton, June 6.—Seldom has Afton and vicinity been so profoundly stirred, as it was last Sunday afternoon, when the news reached here that Will R. McCrea had been fatally injured, while in the discharge of his duties as conductor on the Rockford & Interurban railroad. Mr. McCrea was one of the best known and most popular young men of our town, having formed an extensive acquaintance by reason of his four and one-half years of continuous service as clerk in the Brinkman general store and the post-office. Only a month had elapsed since he relinquished this position to enter the employ of the railway company and his tragic death came as a great shock to all. While working here Mr. McCrea served as news correspondent for the Gazette and labored faithfully with the present writer in the collection and preparation of news matter. Last season he acted as manager of the Afton baseball team and had served in the same capacity during the present season, up to the time of his leaving home. He took an active interest in political affairs and was the nominee for town clerk on the republican ticket last spring. Alert, ambitious and quick of comprehension, Mr. McCrea mastered his duties as conductor the quickest of any candidate that had ever applied to the interurban company for that position and his host of friends here were proud of the fact. His devotion to his widowed mother and to his surviving sister was an indication of his many qualities and won for him the esteem of all. Of a genial disposition and possessed of winning ways, he made friends readily and it is doubtful if any other young man in this section had a larger circle of acquaintances. The funeral services, held at the Baptist church here Tuesday afternoon, demonstrated that fact, being probably the most largely attended gathering of a like nature ever held in Afton. Of the profusion of floral tributes, words fail to express their beauty. Never before has there been such a lavish display, or so many beautiful designs at a funeral here. Special mention might be made of pieces from the Rockford & Interurban R. R. Co., Rockford & Interurban employees, Afton baseball team, Ladies Aid society, Solid Rock Camp No. 1127, R. N. A. Leaver's orchestra; C. & N. W. Ry. head office, Chicago; C. & N. W. Ry. train dispatcher's office, Baraboo; courthouse employees, Janesville. Splendid personal testimonials were also received from a large number of sorrowing friends, whose sympathy thus expressed, found grateful recognition in the hearts of the bereaved family. The services were conducted by Rev. R. M. Vaughan of Janesville, with a beautiful song service rendered by Mesdames Lillian Eddy and Mattie Fatzinger, also of Janesville, Mrs. Mary E. Waite presiding at the organ. The pallbearers were all cousins of the deceased—F. C. Miller, Roy Antisdal, Floyd Kilmer, Fred Palmer, Floyd Miller and Jay Antisdal. Eight fellow employees of the dead conductor, from the Rockford & Interurban Ry., were present to pay a last tribute of respect and esteem to one who, in one short month of service, had gained their affectionate regard. Four score and nine carriages followed the remains to the Afton cemetery, where, with brief but impressive ceremonies, they were laid to rest by the side of the father and sister who had preceded their son and brother to the spirit-land.

Responsibility

You wouldn't pay railway fare to anybody who happened to ask you for it, but only to the responsible uniformed conductor.

You shouldn't feel bound to take the first cigar that's offered to you, but only the one that's plainly marked with the stamp of responsibility—the "Triangle A."

You know what you're getting when You buy a "Triangle A" Cigar

What do you know about the nameless and irresponsible cigars offered you?

The "Triangle A" is a guarantee of cigar quality before you buy.

It's plain proof that we are willing and anxious to have the American Cigar Company's cigars judged strictly on their merits.

The "Triangle A" has a wider meaning than that of a mere identification mark:

One Side stands for knowing how.

Another Side stands for equipment.

And all that would never be worth a last year's calendar to you if the third side of the "Triangle A" did not stand for the disposition of the American Cigar Company to give the smoker all the benefit of its cigar knowledge and cigar-producing equipment.

Therefore—The American Cigar Company is taking this occasion to assure you that its "Triangle A" is a public sign of its definite, positive and unchangeable intention to offer you always the best cigars that its unequalled equipment and experience are capable of producing.

We manufacture a large number of brands of different blends to suit individual tastes.

The New CREMO

affords first-class evidence of the quality that is guaranteed by the "A" (Triangle A) on the box.

GREW MISS CARROLL'S HAIR

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost.

WITHIN the last decade great and rapid strides have been made in Materia Medica. Many diseases that were considered incurable fifteen years ago are now cured in a few days, and in many cases prevented altogether. The scientists of late years have been delving for the cause, the foundation, the reason and the starting point of disease, fully realizing that the actual and true cause must be ascertained before the remedy can be located. Hair troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp, and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment, and when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all of its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural and logical thing to do in either case is, feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is identical with the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp. It feeds and nourishes the hair and does all the work originally carried on by the natural nutrients or life-giving juices generated by the scalp itself. It penetrates the pores of the scalp quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One twenty-five-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself. Now on sale at every drug and toilet store in the land. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

GOOD POINT FOR SCHMITZWITNESS ADMITS NO THREAT AS TO LICENSES WAS MADE.*Says Restaurant Proprietors Raised $10,000 to Be Paid Abe Ruef "as a Lawyer."

San Francisco, June 7.—A few minutes before adjournment of court Thursday afternoon, the defense in the trial of Mayor Schmitz for extortion scored what they consider a signal point, during the cross-examination of one of the prosecution's chief witnesses, Antonio B. Blanco. Until the great fire Blanco was proprietor of Delmonico's, one of the five French restaurants from whose owners the mayor and Abraham Ruef are accused of having extorted thousands of dollars under threats, implied if not expressed, to prevent the reissuance of their liquor licenses.

"Did Ruef ever tell you that if you did not pay this money you would not get your license renewed?" asked Attorney Campbell, the mayor's senior counsel.

"No," replied Blanco promptly, "he did not."

"Did the mayor ever tell you that?"

"No."

"Did anybody ever tell you so?"

"No, nobody ever made that threat to me," said Blanco.

Four witnesses were on the stand Thursday: Officer Charles F. Skelley, secretary of the board of police commissioners; former Police Commissioners Thomas Reagan and Dr. Joseph Pohelm, and Antonio Blanco.

Former Commissioner Reagan testified minutely to the sudden change of the mayor's attitude toward proprietors of French restaurants—from advising the refusal of licenses to demanding that they be granted—simultaneously with the appearance of Abe Ruef as attorney for the restaurant keepers.

Former Commissioner Pohelm told of the compelling by Ruef of a set of regulations for the government of the restaurants, how he heard the "boss" had laughed over these, and how, after they had been submitted by Ruef to the police board, the held-up licenses were renewed.

Blanco testified that he and the proprietors of the Pup, Delmonico's, Marchand's and Tortoni's had raised a fund of $10,000 to be paid to Ruef, "as a lawyer" and "for taking care" of their licenses for them.

Minnesota After the Oil Trust.

St. Paul, Minn., June 7.—The state of Minnesota, through Attorney General E. T. Young, is about to begin suit to oust the Standard Oil company from the state. The suit will be based upon an alleged violation of the so-called Hinton law, which provides that the price of oil must be uniform throughout the state, allowance being made for shipping charges.

Tries to Murder His Wife.

Kankakee, Ill., June 7.—After 36 years of married life, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harms, living near Bonfield, west of here, quarreled a few weeks ago and separated. Thursday morning Harms called at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Schmitz, where his wife was staying, and shot her. She is not expected to live.

Recreant Lover Resigns.

Washington, June 7.—Lieut. Mack Richardson, twenty-sixth United States infantry, recently stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., who was engaged to marry the daughter of a prominent banker of Brownsville and who failed to appear at the time set for the ceremony, resigned Thursday.

Fined $10,000 for Giving Rebates.

With and Without.

Many a fellow what has a continual hemorrhage of advice wouldn't bleed wisdom if he chopped his jugular vein in two.—Judge.

The Accepted Time.

"De choir am now about to voeliferate," said old Parson Bagster, during a recent Sabbath morning's service in Ebenezer chapel, "and uh-whilst dey am a-doin' of it, I solemnly suggests dat de mothers of dem-sassy children dat has been uh-sturbin' de congregation on dis occasion to spank 'em. Dis special song, will rise loud and high, muh sisters, and so uh-whilst yo' do yo' duty dess do it wid zeal and liberality. Spar de spank and spile de child—give it to de little vampsints hot and heavy, and de Lawd will bless yo', and de rest of us will bow yo' a vote o' thanks. De choir will now po' fo' th deir hozannors."—Puck.

Bugle Takes Drum's Place.

The drum seems to be falling into disrepute in our army. There was a time when the infantry used the drum and life to sound the "caits"—tattoo, reveille taps, etc.—but of late years the bugle has been substituted, and is now used in all branches of the service.

Woman and the Weed.

Modern woman sits contentedly in an atmosphere of tobacco smoke that would have choked her grandmother, and will countenance the smoky cloud even in her drawing-room and boudoir. My men friends may smoke where they like—there are no restrictions," he said, with a sort of pride.—The Lady.

Self-Developing Plates.

The amateur photographer slid the milk-colored plate into a tray and poured over it a pint of water. Magically then in the mysterious ruddy light fine black lines began to appear. They ran this way and that; they crossed, deepened, spread; soon the plate had turned from white to black. "It has developed itself, you see," said the photographer. "But how? You put nothing but water on it." "I'll tell you. Just as the surface of this plate is coated, so there is a coating on the back—a transparent coating of extremely soluble developer. You need only pour on water, when the developing chemicals at once dissolve and in that developing solution the image begins immediately to appear. A good idea, isn't it? No, these self-developing plates are not yet on the market. They are still a little imperfect. Soon, though, they will be as perfect and as common as self-raising flour."

He Ate the Nail.

Two Marsobians, says Don Vivant, were discussing the best method of eating game. "Well," said one, "if it is woodcock I hang it up on a nail by the beak, and fasten some larks to its claws. After a week I throw away the woodcock and eat the larks, which by that time have absorbed all the flavor of the woodcock." "I do the same," replied the other, not to be outdone, "except that I throw away the larks as well as the woodcock, and eat the nail."

Heroism of a Nurse.

Of all the tests of heroism to which humanity is subjected none is perhaps more awful than an earthquake. It is from disasters such as the terrible earthquake in Jamaica that real courage emerges. One of the bravest workers during the time of the Kingston earthquake was Nurse Sarah Cross, who for nearly 40 hours consecutively gave surgical aid to the injured on board the R. M. S. Port Kingston, under the direction of Dr. Arthur J. Evans. Middlesex hospital, with which Nurse Cross has been connected for 15 years, was the scene the other day of a little ceremony in her honor, when the weekly board of governors presented her with an illuminated address setting forth the record of her services to 200 unfortunate sufferers in the West Indian catastrophe.

"Bells of Shandon."

In one of the dormitories of the Irish college at Rome there is a space on the wall left unpapered and unpainted, whatever repairs the rest of the room may undergo, for there, carefully scrawled, is the first rough draft of Father Prout's "Bells of Shandon."—Sunday Magazine.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, June 7, 1867.—The Weather.—The thermometer indicated 59 in the shade at noon today.

Accident.—Mr. C. W. Whittier had a foot badly smashed this morning by a plank falling on it. Three bones were broken and other injuries inflicted.

Personal.—Capt. Samuel Hart formerly of this city, has received the appointment of Assistant Assessor under General Wallace, in Chicago.

Circuit Court.—Tubbs, of light fingered notoriety, paid the penalty of his enterprise by a sentence of three years in the penitentiary.

Theatre.—Last night the celebrated moral play of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," which is founded upon a story by T. S. Arthur, was put upon the boards by the troupe now performing at Lippin's Hall, and when we say that it was excellently rendered, it is bestowing but very mild praise. Although it is not a play calculated to show off the fine acting of Miss Weston who is the leading artist of the company, it brought out prominently the other members to good advantage. It is much superior to the company Mr. Mills had here last, and if it were not for this intensely hot weather, they might reasonably expect, as they deserve; crowded houses while they remain. Tonight "Rosin Meadows" or "Temptation Unveiled" is to be presented.

Correspondence has just been completed between Secretary Seward and Baron Steockel wherein the purchase of the Russian possessions has been acknowledged by both governments, although the money has not been paid over and will not until an appropriation is made by congress. The Russian minister has informed Secretary Seward that the officials in Russian America had been instructed to admit all United States vessels to their ports free of duty.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Good Word, "Humpty Dumpty" Coming.

Old age, middle age, youth and children of tender years throughout the land. All understand the meaning of these words—"Humpty Dumpty." Our grandfathers told us of him sitting on the wall, etc., when we were little tots—sitting upon those dear old parental knees. In our happy childhood days we learned the fairy tales of "Old Mother Goose," and oftentimes pictured that funny little "Humpty" sitting upon the wall in his historical "Egg-Hom" which afterwards gets an awful tumble, breaking the egg and hatching out the famous pantomimic fun-maker of the world. It may interest many of our readers and amusement-lovers to learn the fact that the aforesaid "Humpty" is as rambunctious, as "funny as ever" will take another tumble from the wall in our Myers theatre next Saturday, June 8, matinee and evening, when the "Saville Humpty Dumpty" Co. are to be here with all their gorgeous scenery, electrical and mechanical effects, etc., to correctly produce this famous old play. The company is heralded by a well-known "Humpty Dumpty" manager, Col. C. W. Roberts, who, being also a recognized member of the legitimate Press Fraternity of New York, is considered reliable authority for the following statement: "The above company is playing to large and well pleased audiences throughout the country. The cast of 18 people is an exceptionally strong one. Each an artist in their line. All genuine entertainers, and headed by the world-renowned original Johnnie McDonald, whose record as the greatest pantomimist, and "Humpty Dumpty" clown living, has long since been acknowledged by the chief critics of the world. He is justly pronounced the "king of fun-makers," the man who has made millions laugh. It is said of him—there is a laugh in his every movement. A bevy of handsome well-dressed young ladies, all good singers and dancers, make up the chorus, which is fairly bubbling over with the very latest in their line. Every feature is strictly up-to-date.

An interesting number will be an original "Buster Brown" chorus, introducing the famous "Buster Brown" incidentally high-class vaudeville acts are introduced throughout the entire performance, making it an interesting entertainment from start to finish. S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

There is no other part of our physical system upon which so much depends as upon the blood. The muscles, nerves, bones, sinews, skin, and other portions of the body are sustained, developed and enabled to perform their different duties, because they are supplied with nourishment and healthful properties through the circulation. In various ways the blood becomes contaminated and polluted. A sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, will leave the refuse and waste matter of the body to sour and form uric and other acids, which are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism, or some itching, disfiguring skin disease is the result. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, spots, pimples, etc.; all show that some humor has taken root in the circulation and rendered it sour and unfit for nourishing the body. There is scarcely any disease which cannot be traced to the blood. Often the disease-tainted blood of parents is handed down to children and their lives are a continual battle against disease in some form, usually of a scrofulous nature. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood troubles, and until this vital fluid is purified they cannot be cured. For all blood diseases S. S. S. is the best remedy ever put upon the market. This great medicine is made of roots, herbs and barks of recognized blood-purifying and building-up properties. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities and humors, supplies the blood with the healthful properties it needs and completely cures blood diseases of every kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc.; because it purifies the blood. Book on the blood and medical advice free.

Where Content Was Not.
A man that had health, riches and several houses beautifully furnished, often moved about with his family from one dwelling to another. When a friend asked him why he took the trouble to move so often he replied:
"In order to find content in some of them." But his friend knowing him well told him if he would find content in any of his houses he must leave himself behind.

Men Don't Say This.

GREAT MEETINGS ARE HELD

Interest in the Work at the Rink Does Not Flag.

Great meeting last night at the Rink. Largest attendance yet. Everbody getting into the swing of the meeting. People are coming in crowds from all quarters. You have been missed and you have missed the inspiration of the meetings if you have not been present.

New songs with great attraction are learned every night and people are singing who never tried to sing in public before.

"The Lowlands of Life," the music of which was written by our leader, Mr. De Loss Smith, was rendered by Mr. Smith in great pathos and sweetness, the large choir and congregation joining in the chorus was entrancing.

The Rev. Thomas Ullom spoke with a good deal of fervor; his sweet spirit woven into his thoughts makes him an attractive speaker.
His thought last night was along the line of the Holy Spirit and consecration. He said if I were to ask you tonight how many of you were Christians almost all of you would respond in the affirmative. But if I should ask the question how many of you have received the Holy Ghost probably few would respond. But I want you to catch a new vision tonight of the Holy Spirit, for according to the promise it is for you and for your children and for all them that are afar off.

When did the Holy Spirit come? It was on the day of Pentecost after ten days of prayer; they remained in one place night after night until they were endowed with the spirit, and then they were ready to give the message to others.

For what purpose did the Holy Spirit come? Peter must be a changed man before he could go out to preach the gospel. No longer the timid Peter afraid of the challenge of a servant girl, the crowd of accusing his Lord and Master. The great object of life is living for the weaker brother and not for self. The difference between a Christian with power and a Christian without power is in the unconditional surrender of all his life to God.

We must pay the price for power.
A sign on a building was for rent with power at one hundred dollars, or without power at seventy-five dollars; if we as Christian workers want power we must pay the price.

We must make a surrender of all to Christ, even to the giving up of the smallest key that will unlock the chambers of the heart.

This evening the meeting is for young people, boys and girls, and all Sunday school workers, none too young and none too old to be heartily welcomed. Come and help sing.
The leader is ably assisted by Mrs.
De Loss Smith and Mrs. F. T. Richards at the piano and Dr. F. T. Richards and Arthur Pateles with the organ and violin.

Everybody welcome, but a special invitation is extended to the boys and girls.

when a new drawing, showing the

TOBACCO MEN TALK ABOUT THE OUTLOOK

Not Pleased With Present Prospects
Of Wisconsin Leaf—Means Loss of Acreage.

Tobacco men generally are not pleased with present outlook regarding the prospects for the coming season. The cold raw spring has delayed transplanting and the plants themselves are small and undersized. One dealer said yesterday that he never saw tobacco that was planted late in June worth anything and that he expected the acreage would be very small this year. In fact he knew of several farmers who had already decided not to plant and would turn their land to some other crop. This will make the ware house holdings much more valuable if there is a shortage in the Wisconsin crop. The Edgerton Reporter says the following:

Another week of cold rains and only a moderate amount of pleasant weather has not improved the new crop prospects as was hoped. The plant beds are making slow progress and only a small percentage of them will be in readiness for transplanting by the 20th. With exceptional weather from this on the bulk of the crop can scarcely be in the fields by the close of the month. Without question the planting will be late this year and the hope of the crop must come from weather conditions at the harvest end of the season. The continued wet weather has put back all farm work so that growers have as yet accomplished but little towards preparing their fields, and even if the plants were in readiness transplanting would not become general for some days yet. There will be busy times ahead for the farmers for the next few weeks.

The market for cured leaf contains no news. A few odd jobs are yet to be completed about the warehouses, but nothing worthy of mention has occurred. Old tobacco have only a moderate demand, as manufacturers still insist on lower leaf prices.

The shipments out of storage reach about 7000s for the week past to all points from the market.

ANOTHER PROPHET ON

WEATHER FOR MONTH

New York Forecaster Says June Will Be Cold and Chilly—Long Range Dates.

Here are Weather Prophet Devoe's predictions for the entire summer, which, he says, will be cool up to July 10, and then roasting hot till after Sept. 15. Devoe is a famous New York "weather prophet" who has for years been very successful in making predictions:

June 2 to 7—Moderately warm.

June 8 to 9—Heavy thunderstorms, followed by falling temperature.

June 9 to 12—Coldest summer weather for many years in June, but too cloudy for frost, though almost cold enough for snow.

June 13 to 15—Pleasant.

June 16—Warm, showery.

June 18 to 22—Pleasant.

June 23—Warm and showery.

June 24—Heavy thunderstorms.

June 25 to 27—Very cool for summer. July will come in cool and stay so for several days.

"The Fourth"—Cool.

July 6—Thunderstorms.

July 7 to 10—Very cold for that time of the year.

July 11 and then through the summer—Very hot.

All crops will be late.

Antiquity of Playing Cards

The origin of playing cards is lost in antiquity, though some historians have attempted to fix approximate dates.
In the year 1377 a German monk living in Switzerland mentions the fact that card games had been introduced into that country.

NEW METHODS ARE QUICKLY NOTICED

Shurtliff Company Progress Rapidly
—Many Innovations in Business
Trade.

One of Janesville's industries which has made wonderful progress the past few years is the plant of the Shurt-liff Company, manufacturers of pasteurized butter and ice-cream. A recent tour of inspection through this plant disclosed much information interesting enough from a purely news standpoint to warrant its publication.

From the start the visitor was impressed with the startling changes wrought during the past decade in the methods of manufacturing butter and ice-cream. To one familiar with the process of butter and ice-cream making a dozen years ago, the system in use today by the Shurtliff Company would hardly be recognized.

With Mr. Geo. Shurtliff as guide, a trip was made through the entire plant, and he explained the workings and details of the various machines in the several departments.

In the Creamery Department, which was first visited, are large vats, or agitators, which add sufficient cream to make 3000 pounds of butter. These vats are so constructed that the temperature of the cream can be raised or lowered 15 to 20 degrees in a few moments. The old way required hours, and even then the result was neither certain nor uniform.

Two churns are located close by the vats, the cream being handled by machinery. When both these are full they turn out 1800 pounds of butter at one churning.

The process, from being one of guesswork and haphazard methods, has become scientific to the last degree. The Babcock tester enables the butter-maker to know exactly how many pounds of butter he is going to have. Consequently there is no guess-work about salting. The butter is washed, salted, and worked all in the churn, and is handled by the butter-maker but once from start to finish.

When he packs it in cans, tubs, or prints. And the most surprising thing about the butter department is that it will be handled the cream this summer. Coming into the ice-cream department is again struck by the improved, modern machinery throughout, and no less by the utter absence of all the cumbersome, uncleanly equipment so often found in ice-cream factories. The first apparatus noticed in this department is the pasteurizer, which, by raising the temperature of the cream to a certain point and cooling quickly, absolutely kills all germs. This precaution has been taken constantly for the last twelve years by the Shurtliff Company, lest by any chance the germs of tuberculosis or other disease might find their way into the company's products. Three hundred gallons of cream are pasteurized here at one time, at the same time a little modest-looking freezer is freezing 150 gallons of ice-cream an hour—the whole process being accomplished by machinery.

The butter and ice-cream made by this company have a well-earned reputation throughout this section as model pure-food products.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

A T 3 o'clock in the morning Groves, in a discarded dressing gown of his master's, opened the front door and peered cautiously out into the darkness. M. Louis, who was standing upon the doorstep, pushed past him into the hall.

"Your master has sent me to fetch some papers," he announced, displaying a bunch of keys. "I am sorry to disturb you like this, but the matter is important. Please bring me a cup of coffee into the library in half an hour."

Groves, who was sorely perplexed, stood with his back to the door which M. Louis had approached.

"Really, sir," he answered, "I scarcely know what to say. I am afraid that I cannot allow you to interfere with any of my master's property in his absence."

M. Louis held out the keys.

"Quite right," he said. "It is an awkward situation, of course. Your master did not tell you the reason of his sudden departure, I suppose."

"Not a word, sir."

"There can be no harm in telling you this much, at any rate," M. Louis continued smoothly. "Your master, through no fault of his own, got mixed up in a very unpleasant affair in Paris, and he will have to appear in the courts there. I am his friend and wish to do all that I can to help him. We have been talking the matter over, and I have strongly advised him to produce some papers which I think will help him materially. The police officer in whose charge he is would not allow him to return, so he handed me his keys and asked me to fetch them. I can assure you that I am your master's friend and wish to do all that I can to help him. If he had not trusted me, he would not have given me his keys, which no doubt you recognize."

Groves reluctantly stood on one side.

"I suppose I must let you in, sir," he said. "But I wish that the master had sent me a line."

"We had neither pencil nor paper," M. Louis said, "and the affair was urgent. I must be back in Norwich by 8 o'clock."

"I will prepare the coffee, sir," Groves said, turning away. "If you require more light the switches are behind the door."

"Very good," M. Louis said. "You need not have the slightest anxiety. I am here on your master's behalf."

Groves hesitated and looked for a moment curiously around the room. He seemed as though he had something else to say, but checked himself at the last moment and withdrew. M. Louis drew a little breath of relief.

He did not immediately proceed to work. He threw off his overcoat and lit a cigarette. His fingers were steady enough, but he was conscious of an unwelcome sense of excitement. He was face to face with destiny. He had played before for great stakes, but never such as these. A single false step, an evil turn in the wheel of fortune, spelled death, and he was afraid to die.

He moved to the sideboard. Everything there was as they had left it. He poured out some brandy and drank it off.

With fresh courage he moved to the safe, which stood in the corner of the room. It must be there, if anywhere, that this precious document lay. He tried his keys one by one. At last he found the right one. The great door swung slowly open.

He was spared all anxiety. There on the top of a pile of little looking documents, leases, title deeds and the like, was a long envelope, and across it in Duncombe's sprawling writing these few words: "Intended to be the Alibi."

Poynton.—Sept. 4th.

He grasped it in his fingers and tore open the envelope. As he read the single page of closely written writing his eyes seemed almost to protrude. He gave a little gasp. No wonder there were those who reckoned this single page of manuscript worth a great fortune. Every sentence, every word, told its own story. It was a page of the world's history.

Then a strange thing happened. Some part of him rebelled against the instant which prompted him to carefully fold and place in his breast pocket this wonderful find of his. His nerves seemed suddenly frozen in his body. There was a curious numb sensation at the back of his neck which forbade him to turn round. His hands shook; his teeth chattered. The sweat of death was upon his forehead and despair in his heart. He had heard nothing, seen nothing, yet he knew that he was no longer alone.

When at last he turned round he found his whole body. The muscles of his neck were numb still, his knees shook and his face was ghastly. M. Louis of the Cafe Montmartre, brave of tongue and gallant of bearing, had suddenly collapsed. M. Louis, the drug sidden degenerate of a family whose nobles had made gay the scaffolds of the Place de la Republique, covered in his place.

It was the worst upon which he looked with chattering teeth, but without surprise. The door of the inner room was open, and upon the threshold stood Toquet, small, dark and saturnine—Toquet, with something which glittered in his hand, so that M. Louis, already the prey of a diseased and ghastly imagination, felt the pain of the bullet in his heart. On an easy chair by the fireside Henri de Bergillac was lounging, with a queer smile upon his lips.

"My friend," he said quietly, though the scern which underlay his words seemed to bite the air, "you have solved for us a double problem. First, how to account for the absence of our host, and, secondly, how to open that very formidable-looking safe. You will be so good as to place upon the table that document which you hold in your hands."

For a single second M. Louis hesitated. Some lingering vestige of a courage, purely hereditary, showed him in one lightning-like flash how at least he might carry with him to a swift grave some vestige of his ruined self respect. A traitor to his old friends, he might at least keep faith with the new. He had time to destroy. Even the agonies of his master he nearly dropped the tray.

"It's all right, Groves," Duncombe said, smiling. "We had a little spill, and I've lost my bag. Pack me some more things quickly."

"Very good, sir," Groves answered, and withdrew precipitately.

De Bergillac laid his hand upon Duncombe's arm.

"There is only one thing, my friend," he said. "I trust that it is Mr. Guy Poynton who is your friend and not his beautiful sister? Eh? I am answered! The mistress! Never mind. I will drink my coffee to les belle yeux de les autres!"

De Bergillac turned away. The effeminacy of his manner seemed to have disappeared under the strain of his extreme anger. It was his race, after all, which had asserted itself. And then the door was thrown suddenly open, and a wild looking figure confronted them.

It was Duncombe, muddy from head to foot, pale and with a slight wound upon the temple, from which the blood had trickled down his face. He saw the open safe, and M. Louis, a pitiful figure, and he did not hesitate. He scarcely glanced at the others. He strode forward and seized the baron by the collar.

"Give me back what you have stolen, you blackguard!" he exclaimed.

M. Louis was breathless. It was the young vicomte who interposed.

"Our friend," he remarked suavely, "has not been successful in his little effort. The document he came to purloin is in my pocket, and here, Sir George, is my warrant for retaining possession of it."

He held out a note, which Duncombe took and read, with a little sigh of relief.

"Good!" he exclaimed. "You have the document?"

De Bergillac tapped his breast pocket.

"It is here," he said.

Duncombe turned to M. Louis.

"My arrest, then," he remarked, "was part of the game?"

"Exactly!" De Bergillac answered. "This little document, intrusted to your care by the young English lady, was worth a million francs to the man who snubbed our friend here. It was worth while, this little enterprise. The pity of it is that it has failed. Sir George, I go to Paris tonight. I offer you a safe conduct if you care to accompany me. L'affaire Poynton does not exist any more."

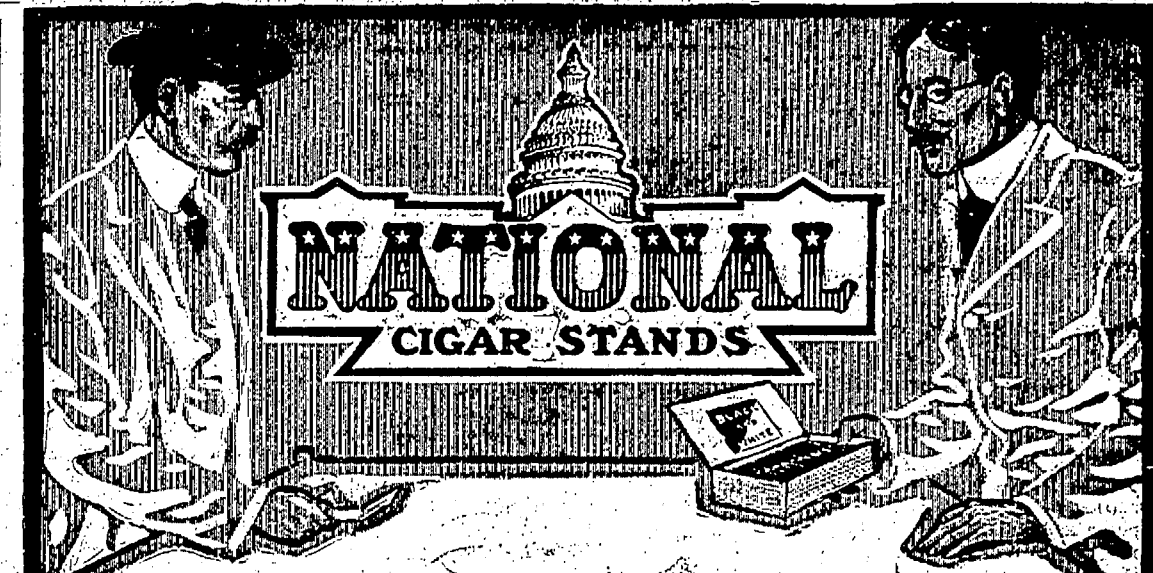

"Can you give me ten minutes to change my clothes?" Duncombe asked eagerly.

"No more," De Bergillac answered. "I will get rid of our friend here."

There was a knock at the door. Groves entered, with coffee. At the

HOW IT IS DONE

The trade mark illustrated above—the miniature capitol which can now be seen in the windows of more than 2,000 drug stores—is an emblem of tremendous importance to smokers.

It means better cigars, in better condition and for less money.

It means that 2,000 druggists, who as individuals were obliged to buy their cigars from the jobber a few boxes at a time, have now, by combining their buying power, become a National organization which constitutes the greatest cigar outlet on earth.

It has its own brands and its own factories; it controls absolutely the character and condition of every cigar it handles.

Its members own and control their own cigar business as heretofore—all the revolution has been wrought by the simple expedient of buying together instead of separately.

Go to any drug store that has the National's emblem in its window and ask for a

Cigar (Perfecto or Bouquet size) 5 cents and a good 3 for a quarter value! It will say more for the National Cigar Stands in a single whiff than we can say in this whole advertisement, and that is only one brand out of 80 which will testify to the same effect.

Half the cost of the average cigar is added between the factory and the retailer. Here are a few brands owned and produced by this organization on which that unnecessary cost has been cut out—

Cuba-Roma—Clear Havana, 3 for 25c. value. 5c. La Idalia—Clear Havana, best ever sold. 3 for 25c. value. 5c. Add a first-class domestic cigar, presenting superior workmanship. 7 for 25c. Sergeant Chub—Best short smoke ever sold. 10 for 15c. Stirling Castle—Fine, clear Havana cigar, 10c. quality. 6c. College Days—High grade Domestic 6 for 25c.

SMITHS' PHARMACY.

"Aye, to rot if you will!" the vicomte answered, with sudden harshness.

"I will atone," M. Louis faltered. "It was a single false step."

De Bergillac looked down upon him with unspeakable contempt.

"Atone! Listen, Louis! In this country you are safe. Crawl away into some hiding place and make what you will of the rest of your days, but I will promise you this—if ever you set your feet upon one inch of France you shall meet with your deserts. There are many things which those who play the great game must pardon, but there is one crime for which no atonement is possible, and you have committed it. You are a traitor!"

De Bergillac turned away. The effeminacy of his manner seemed to have disappeared under the strain of his extreme anger. It was his race, after all, which had asserted itself. And then the door was thrown suddenly open, and a wild looking figure confronted them.

GERMANY IS READY FOR CONFERENCE

WILL DECLINE TO DISCUSS QUESTION OF ARMAMENTS.

ENGLAND MAY DROP IT

Position of Kaiser's Delegates on Rights of Private Property at Sea and on Contraband of War.

Berlin, June 7.—The preliminaries to the Hague conference have been settled to the satisfaction of the emperor and the foreign office, and the meeting is awaited with a tranquillity that did not prevail during March, when some of the powers were endeavoring to win a diplomatic success over Germany by seeking to make it appear that Germany alone was an enemy of peace in wishing to omit the question of armaments from the program.

The Austro-Hungarian and the Russian governments particularly have associated themselves with the German view that the conference may go farther toward eliminating war by agreements to extend the peaceful adjustments of disputes than by debates upon the extinction or curtailment of armaments. The British government, which was so active in pressing for a discussion of armaments, is disposed now, according to information received in the German foreign office, to drop the subject unless the American or some other government can be persuaded to introduce it.

Policy Generally Approved.

The emperor's instructions to the German delegates, should disarmament come to a discussion, are not to take part in the discussion, but to note the development of the question and report thereon. Prince von Buelow, speaking in the reichstag April 30, said that the government would take into earnest consideration any agreements of the other powers concerning armaments. The government's position on this subject finds general support in Germany.

The rights of private property at sea are considered, with the related questions, to be the most important subjects that will be examined. It is assumed that the United States will follow its traditional policy of affirming that private property should be immune from capture. When the proposal was made at the first Hague conference that the United States would give up the privilege of privateering provided the conference would abolish the right of seizing private property, the delegates, except those of Great Britain and France, expressed the hope that a second conference would consider the question. The German government, with certain limitations, is in sympathy with the American view.

Navy Likes Prize Money.

The exemption of private property would require very precise agreements relative to the seizure of cargoes or parts of cargoes as contraband or in contravention of a blockade that may have been declared against the port in which the goods were consigned. The disclosure of the British and the French positions is awaited with uncommon interest. Since the abolition in land warfare of authorized looting, one of the attractions of war has ceased, so the prohibition of plundering at sea would be regarded here as removing one more cause of war. The German navy, in common with the navies of other countries, is disinclined to give up the chances of prize money, but general political considerations, not service ideas, control the government's attitude.

Germany like other nations with extensive commerce, but without a mastery of the sea, inclines toward limiting the definition of contraband of war. Since the previous conference, Russia has declared cotton, foodstuffs, naphtha and alcohol to be absolute contraband; a position regarded by most powers as untenable. Germany had occasion also to protest during the Boer war against the seizure by British ships of the German merchantmen Herzog, General and Bundesrat, on the supposition that they carried contraband. The effort of the German delegates will be to obtain a definition of contraband so clear that the subject may be considered as beyond the possibility of dispute in the future.

Burglar Caught in Wolf Trap.

Mitchell, S. D., June 7.—His place having been robbed three times since Sunday, the proprietor of a local meat market Wednesday night placed four wolf traps in the rear of his shop. Walter Van Denbury, aged 11 years, while crawling on his hands and knees, struck and sprung one of the traps, catching his fingers. The boy was arrested and confessed, implicating another boy and a man.

Vessel Aground on Gulf Reef.

Sandusky, O., June 7.—A vessel, unidentified, is aground on Gulf Reef, midway between Middle Island and Kelley's Island, in grave danger of breaking up. Marblehead life savers left to take off the crew and passengers, if any are aboard.

Boy Killed by Live Wire.

Boone, Ia., June 7.—Orville Briggs, 14 years old, was killed and his father, David Briggs, was fatally injured here Thursday evening. The boy grasped a live wire and his father tried to rescue him.

Life Sentence or Execution.

The strongest argument I can see against capital punishment is that it constantly exposes the course of justice to be interfered with by maudlin outbursts of sentiment. If a man prefers to be hanged and the law decrees that he shall be hanged, what intelligible reason is there for keeping him in prison instead of spending the rest of his days miserably at the public expense? There is no mercy about it.—London Truth.

No Century Begins on Sunday. There are some curious facts about our calendar. No century can begin on Wednesday, Friday or Sunday. The same calendars can be always used every 20 years. October always begins on the same day of the week as January, April as July, September as December, February, March and November also begin on the same days. May, June and August always begin on different days from each other and from every other month in the year. The first and last days of the year are always the same. These rules do not apply to leap year, when comparison is made between days before and after February 29.
